Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the “turbulent portion formed in inner wall surface of each of the valve chambers” for claim 13 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5, 7-12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Umeda et al., (JP 2001-12825 A). Umeda et al., disclose an expansion valve for arrangement in a refrigerant circuit of a refrigerating apparatus, the expansion valve comprising:

- a valve chamber (8);
- an inlet, formed in the valve chamber (8) and connected to an upstream refrigerant pipe (10), for drawing a refrigerant flow into the valve chamber (8);
- an outlet, formed in the valve chamber (8) and connected to a downstream refrigerant pipe (11), for discharging the refrigerant flow from the valve chamber (8);
- a refrigerant passage formed between the inlet and outlet in the valve chamber (8);
- an orifice (9) for variably controlling the flow rate of the refrigerant flow in the refrigerant passage; and
- a turbulent portion (the groove formed at the stop surface 12c of the valve portion, the outer meandering surface of the valve portion, the sharp corners formed on the outer surface of the valve portion, sharp corners formed on the inner surface of the valve body, meandering surface formed on the inner surface of the valve case 4 including an axial and oblique (see inner surface of valve casing 4) passage, are causing turbulence in the refrigerant flow in the refrigerant passage upstream of the orifice and protruding top seat surface 12c , tapered surface 6d are causing turbulent flow downstream of the .valve chamber 8. Regarding ridges and valleys can be seen on the inner surface of the valve casing 4 and also on the outer surface of the valve portion;

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Umeda et al., in view of Tanasawa et al., (4,365,746). Umeda et al., disclose the invention substantially as claimed as stated above except spiral groove. Tanasawa et al., teach the use of spiral groove 14 on the valve surface 13 of valve for the purpose of obtaining swirling or turbulent flow of fluid . See Fig. 4 and 5, column 2, lines 31-39. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the valve groove 3 of Umeda et al., in view of Tanasawa et al., such that a spiral groove can be provided in order to obtain turbulent flow..

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 13 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
